

Brendo and Rhianon have spent today doing their reconnaissance for tomorrow's Southern Rally, to be held in the Kuitpo area of South Australia.

After spending some time recently working on his Subaru Impreza RS to make it stronger, Brendo is hoping for a good result on the tough event.

"It looks like it's going to be a very fast rally which won't really suit the RS," Brendo said. "However, it will be great to get some more competitive kilometres under our belts and to be able to fine tune our pacenoting ahead of our trip to the UK in December. We really enjoyed our last event over here (South Australia), and are looking forward to tomorrow."
